Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 06 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Snow largely clearing but lingering in the east. Feeling cold.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain and snow will largely clear to the southwest through the evening and overnight, becoming dry for most, although further snow showers are likely for the Pennines. Feeling cold with a risk of icy patches, and strengthening winds. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Sunday:
A cold start with some icy patches. Largely dry throughout, with sunny spells, though eastern areas continue to see occasional snow showers. Cold, with strong winds and significant wind chill. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Sunny spells with occasional snow showers, mainly in eastern areas, throughout the period. Feeling very cold with widespread overnight ice and frost, and strong easterly winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.